Axis Forces In Tunisia Driven Back To Last Defense Line

Rome-Berlin Axis Foresees Early Rout In Tunisia Battle

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 7.—The Rome-Berlin Axis today began seriously to condition its populace for news of disastrous defeat in Tunisia as feeling spread in London that "big things are being planned" to hasten the end of Nazi tyranny.

An official communique issued by the German high command admitted that a "deep breach" had been made by attacking field armies in Axis positions in Tunisia, while a highly-placed Italian spokesman said in an address to Fascist party leaders that if Italy falls, it will do so with "fine dignity".

There was a distinct under current in all Axis broadcasts.

"Big Things To Come"

The prediction of "big things to come" was emphasized in a broadcast by CBS Correspondent Edward R. Murrow, whose scripts, like all news dispatches, must be submitted to both British and American censorship.

"There is a certain air of expectancy over here," he said, "a feeling that big things are being planned.

"The tension has preceded previous dramatic developments is missing. But that will come later. So don't expect any detailed prophecies about future action in western Europe. Some one might just happen to be right."

In amplification of the dour communique issued by the Nazi high command, a military spokesman in Berlin said that Axis forces in North Africa are now outnumbered ten to one, a clear warning to the German people that defeat is in the offing. At the same time, the Algiers radio again reported that Adolf Hitler had ordered the cream

Russians Surge Ahead In Drive On Novorossisk

New Gains Reported In Move To Capture Black Sea Naval Base

LARGE LOSSES ARE SUFFERED BY NAZIS

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, May 7 — Beating down bitter German counter-attacks in the Kuban Valley of the West Caucasus, Red army tank and infantry units surged forward today to reap new gains in the drive to recapture the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk.

The Soviet high command reported in its noon communique that the Nazis were suffering terrific losses in futile attempts to stave off the Russian troops.

A number of counter-blows were struck against the Red army northeast of Novorossisk but all were repelled with heavy losses to the Germans, the high command said.

Hand-To-Hand

The battling often developed into hand-to-hand engagements as the Russians and Germans came to close grips and furious fighting developed between artillery and armored units. Soviet air forces actively supported the ground units.

Several important heights on the approaches to the naval base were seized by the Russians after they overcame the stubborn enemy resistance.

A total of 1,500 Germans were killed and six tanks destroyed on

PA NEWC OBSERVES

According to indications of remarks of Manpower Commissioner Paul McNutt at Washington, the strength of the U. S. armed forces now totals about 8,300,000. Men are being inducted at the rate of 300,000 monthly at present, he revealed, and it was also indicated that the armed strength by the end of the year was expected to be around 10,000,000.

Men who departed last night for army service left from a new location. They departed from the P. & L. E. ticket office, which made the departure from the public square. This is the first time that any draftees have left from the public square in the center of the city. Quite a crowd was in the square when the youths left.

With the first real warm spring evening being experienced Thursday night, downtown traffic took on a huge increase. There was a greater stream of auto traffic in the streets than has been seen for weeks.

Last night's blackout test, coming close on the heels of the air raid test during the day, caught the city as a real surprise. One was hardly expected so soon following the daylight raid. The night test was quite successful, however.

Bus detour required because of the work on the South Mill street bridge is handicapping schedules of buses on the Highland and Mahoningtown route. Many patrons of the line are at a loss to understand why the entire bridge has to be closed while a sidewalk is being laid. Engineers assert that this has to be done so that there will be no vibrations in the bridge while the concrete is setting and hardening.

Following the recent announcement that the mobile blood unit of the Red Cross will come to New Castle in June, people are asking who can be a voluntary blood donor. The answer is "any healthy man or woman between the ages of 21 and 60 years".

Clark Gable Is In Air Raid On Antwerp Plants

Film Star Takes Part In American Fliers' Sortie Into Enemy Country

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 7.—Film idol Clark Gable, now a captain in the United States Air Force, was revealed today to have participated in the recent heavy American raid on factory areas of Nazi-held Antwerp, Belgium.

The disclosure came from crew members of the flying fortress named "Eight Ball" and aboard which Gable rode to the attack.

The fortress crew, now on leave in London, said that Gable "guest manned" a gun position in the radio compartment and fired numerous rounds at attacking Focke-Wulf 190s.

"Gable is a real guy and means business," the crew said, adding that the film star showed no signs of nervousness during the raid.

The crew of the fortress, piloted by Captain W. M. Calhoun, of Birmingham, Ala., are veterans of many missions against the Nazis.

"Here they come and here they go," they quoted Gable as declaring at the approach of the Nazi Focke-Wulfs. He blasted away at them with a .50 caliber gun.

The crew and Gable all were disappointed that the actor was unable to down one of the enemy craft circling their ship. They said they hope to have Gable on another trip as the star of their ship.

WAR PLANT SWEATER GIRL FROWNED UPON BY SAFETY WORKER

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 7—The sweater girl in war industries was severly frowned upon today by Mrs. Esther Duncan, safety supervisor of the Dodge Chicago Company.

"Individual attractiveness as to clothing has no place in a war plant," she declared. "When a girl in a tight-fitting sweater struts to her place at a work bench or a machine in a shop she can do more to disorganize the department in 10 minutes than the safety department can overcome in two months.

"Man workers find it difficult to keep their eyes from her in many cases. The next day surprising things may happen. Some women might appear for work in anything from knickers to evening gowns!"

John L. Lewis Is Denounced

National Legion Commander Assails Lewis As "Would-be Dictator"

By EUGENE J. CADOU
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

INDIANAPOLIS, May 7.—The American Legion's national executive committee today prepared to adopt resolutions embodying National Commander Roane Waring's denunciation of John L. Lewis as a "beetle-browed, would-be dictator."

The committee members agreed with the statement of the Legion commander that the present issue is as to who controls the government—the people or Lewis.

Addressing a crowd of more than 15,000 persons in the state fairgrounds Coliseum in Indianapolis, Waring pictured the heroism and self sacrifice of the American war fighter and added:

"Sorriest Home Spectacle"

"As he faced the hated Nazi on the Tunisian battle line, America witnessed at home the sorriest spectacle that a nation at war ever faced, when John L. Lewis issued his infamous 'no trespassing' order to 530,000 coal miners.

"This wholesale desertion on the home front gave much comfort and aid to the enemy.

"Why should the petty saboteur who drops enemy dust in a machine be apprehended, imprisoned and tried while this one man is permitted to block a nation's production and stay at large? How can a soldier willingly die in the defense of his country, while one man is permitted to thwart that sacrifice and escape the penalty of his infamy?"

The Legion chieftain derided the so-called "truce" of the head of the United Mine Workers of America, saying:

"There cannot be and there must never be a truce on so vital an issue.

"The vital issue is: Is the government set up by the vote of the people running this country and this war, or are Lewis and others of his ilk running it?"

YOUTHS DEPART FOR ARMY SERVICE

Farewell Ceremonies Are Conducted For Group Leaving Thursday Night

Young men called up for army service by Selective Service Board One of the city departed for camp Thursday evening, leaving via the P. & L. E. railroad.

The customary farewell ceremony for these youths was held by the Service Men's Air committee of the U. S. O., the program being conducted inside the new depot on the Diamond, while hundreds of their friends awaited outside to bid them farewell. In addition, the Colored Service Men's Aid group, represented by Mrs. Myrtle Dantzler, presented gifts to the two colored youths who left with this group.

Charles E. Allen presided and the address to the youths was made by Capt. Carl Andreasen of the Salvation Army. The benediction was given by Rev. Homer K. Miller, pastor of the Rich Hill and Volant Presbyterian churches.

Early yesterday morning two youths departed to begin their service, and this morning another group, leaving for navy service left via the P. & L. E. railroad.

Another large contingent from City Board Two and County Board Two will leave later in the day.

Miners Can't Strike Now, It Is Implied

Any Strike Would Be Against U. S. Government At War President Indicates

MINERS NOW IN EMPLOY OF U. S.

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—President Roosevelt indicated strongly today that the nation's coal miners could not strike again when the present 15 day truce in the coal fields expires because they now are employees of the United States government.

This indication was given by the president when he was asked at his news conference if the fact that Secretary Ickes had seized the coal mines in the name of the government meant that the coal miners were employes of the government and whether, therefore, they could strike against the United States.

President's Reply

Mr. Roosevelt replied by saying that the reporter actually had asked two questions. Regarding the question of whether the coal miners were employes of the government, the president said that he should say yes.

Regarding the question of whether the coal miners could strike against the government, the president replied indirectly. He said that he had been in government a great many years and that he could not recollect any strike by any employe of the government against the government.

Miners Bound

This indicated plainly that the president believed that the miners were bound not to strike as long as the government retained operation of the coal mines, which Secretary of Interior Ickes seized last Saturday after a general walk out in the coal fields occurred. The walkout ended under a 15-day truce starting last Tuesday and lasting until May 18 at midnight.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked if the government would continue to operate the mines until a new contract is reached between the miners and the coal operators. He said that he had never heard anybody suggest that the government should stop running the mines as long as the dispute continues.

New Moves In Pacific Loom

Aerial Offensive Against Japanese Bases Is Steadily Continued

U. S. PLANS ARE WELL OUTLINED

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 7 — New developments in the Pacific conflict obviously were in the making today as the United States continued its aerial offensive against Japanese bases in the north, south and southwest Pacific areas.

Fresh clashes between enemy and allied forces were reflected by recent Axis broadcasts which curiously promised new blows against the United States and warned against new American moves.

Washington Silent

Officially Washington maintained silence about enemy warnings and boasts which in the past have been broadcast by Japan and Germany in an effort to obtain military information about United States plans.

In a speech in Manila, Premier Hideki Tojo of Japan promised to strike new blows against his nation's enemies. Meanwhile, the Berlin radio warned that the United States had completed new bases in the North Pacific.

It is no secret that America's Pacific Navy and Army commanders have mapped plans for important

Allied Airmen Smash 27 Axis Ships In Attacks

Eleven Vessels Loaded With Troops Sunk In Mediterranean Sea

RECORD HAVOC IS WROUGHT BY FLIERS

By CLINTON GREEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, May 7.—Twenty-seven enemy vessels, the greatest total ever recorded in a single day's operations have been sunk or damaged by Allied fliers within the last few hours, official spokesmen announced today.

Eleven vessels loaded with troops and supplies were among those sent to the bottom as the Allied airmen roared over the Mediterranean in a devastating new series of smashing sweeps. Many more of these vital ships were damaged during the attacks, conducted by airmen under the command of Maj.-Gen. James Doolittle.

In addition, the pilots wrought tremendous damage to harbor installations in Sicily during their powerful raids.

Meanwhile the tactical air force and the northwest Africa air force were making the greatest effort in aerial history, whipping over the Tunisian battlefield and clearing the way for advancing British, French and American troops.

There could be no doubt about Allied aerial superiority as the planes took off in a steady stream from every available field. More than 2,500 sorties were flown during the day—the largest total since the campaign opened. Of this figure

Make Report Of Result Of Sub Attack By Japs

By LEE VAN ATTA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 7—The extent of recent Japanese attempts to disrupt the Allied life-line between the United States and Australia through submarine attacks "in force" was revealed today in a communique announcing the sinking of five United Nations cargo vessels in waters east of Australia.

Gen. Douglas MasArthur disclosed in his daily communique that one medium-sized American freighter, one large and two small Australian merchantmen and a small Norwegian freighter were sunk by Jap submarines.

Emphasizing that the new assaults by Jap undersea craft should cause no undue alarm, Gen. MacArthur declared:

"Our shipping continues to operate in virtually undiminished volume under protection by our naval and aircraft units."

(South Pacific headquarters of Admiral William F. Halsey declared yesterday that United States submarines are inflicting tremendous losses on Japanese shipping. At the same time Jap claims to sinking 50,000 tons of Allied supply ships in nine days was branded "a flat lie.")

Gen. MacArthur's communique reported devastating new aerial assaults against Jap bases north of Australia. The principal attack was made on the Nipponese air base in the Aru Islands, between Australia and Dutch New Guinea. Several other blows were made on points in New Guinea and New Britain.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 7.—A lightning offensive with few parallels in history carried troops of the British First Army into the outskirts of Tunis this afternoon.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, May 7.—An Allied triumph which will cleanse North Africa of the Axis began to take solid form and shape today as American and British troops hurled the enemy back to the gates of Tunis and Bizerte.

Tunis now is within range of British guns and the Axis has been forced back to the capital city's final defense lines.

With unimpeded progress reported for the Allies on all fronts, Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, commander-in-chief of all ground forces in Tunisia and deputy to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower issued an order of the day which said:

"The last phase of the Tunisian campaign has been reached.

"The enemy will be driven into the sea."

As this order was made public troops of Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson's British First Army surged into the town of St. Cyprien, only 12 miles from Tunis, and American forces in the north battered their way against heavy op-

Two Air Raid Tests Thursday

Surprise "Blackout" Last Night Follows Daylight Test Earlier In Day

For the second time in 10 hours, an air raid alarm was sounded Thursday night but the performance of the second air raid drill and blackout was much superior to the first one, held before noon on Thursday.

The yellow alert came into the control center at 8:21 and at 8:40 the blue alert was sounded. The red alert went at 9:01 and the second blue at 9:14. The all clear signal was announced at 9:29.

For the most part the lights of the city went out at the first blue alert. Automobiles continued operating, as they are permitted during the blue, pedestrians walked the streets and traffic lights remained on, but buildings, homes and street lights blacked out quickly. A number of "incidents" were handled through the control office, these "incidents" being a simulation of occurrences which might happen under an air raid attack.

Some confusion both among the general public and the air raid wardens was noticed when the second blue signal came on at 9:14. A few buildings and homes lighted up, and automobiles were driven with the parking lights on. During the blackout automobiles authorized to drive were stopped by wardens even though they displayed the permission pennant.

L. B. Round, executive director of the Lawrence County Council of Defense, said today concerning the few bobbles in the blackout, "No building or home lights are to be lit when the second blue alert sounds. This is merely notice to pedestrians that it is safe to traverse the streets again, with caution, and notice to motor vehicles that they may resume traffic with their low tilt beam lights on. It is dangerous to drive with only parking lights on. Air raid wardens should not stop authorized automobiles bearing the permit pennant. Aside from a few mistakes the blackout and air raid drill Thursday night was a successful one."

Summer's Heat Feels Very Sweet

Midsummer Warmth Arrives Suddenly, Causing Vegetation To Pop

After a miserable cold spell, which lasted over a period of almost two weeks, spring arrived in all its glory yesterday. In fact, it exceeded all expectations with its exuberance, and folks virtually suffered from the heat as the mercury rose to a high point of 86 degrees.

Vegetation, which had been coming along slowly due to the cold weather, and which had been nurtured by the rains of the last few days, literally popped forth, flowering shrubs and trees bursting into full bloom within a few hours time.

The warmth continued today, giving victory gardeners the urge to get onto the ground and do something about it. A heavy wind which blew yesterday, aided the sun in drying up the ground, and they will soon be able to get at things.

Price Subsidy May Be Planned

Suggested As Method Of "Holding Line" Against Cost Of Living

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Administration quarters today viewed an all out federal subsidy program—perhaps involving a $2,000,000,000 annual outlay—as the only method of fulfilling President Roosevelt's order to "hold-the-line" on the cost of living.

The tremendous pressure on the price structure was significantly demonstrated by OPA's action, with the concurrence of economic czar James F. Brynes, in raising bread prices in the state of Utah, Fargo, N. D., and Moorehead, Minn.

A relative small case, the incident was marked by Byrnes' admission that the price increase was "permissible" under the president's order to prevent closure of bakeries in the affected areas and a consequent bread shortage.

Similar pressure for upward price adjustments has been reported in regard to asparagus, strawberries and many other products, with a disastrous slump in production threatened as the only alternative to immediate relief.

Producers contend that price ceilings cannot be held, much less rolled back, because of higher labor, transportation, distribution and other production costs. The situation prevails throughout the whole cost of living structure, it was said.

Federal subsidies have been advanced in some quarters as the only solution to the problem, a program under which the government would absorb the higher charges at the producing and wholesaling level while holding down retail prices to consumers.

MacArthur made the mistake of doing wonders with little equipment. Now he is expected to keep doing it.

ROME-BERLIN AXIS FORESEES EARLY ROUT IN TUNISIA BATTLE

of his officers' corps out of Tunisia.

Axis Sees Defeat

The Berlin communique said:

"Despite heroic resistance of German and Italian troops and although numerous attacks were repelled, the enemy succeeded at one point in making a deep breach... the battle is continuing fiercely."

In making his estimate of a 10-to-1 allied superiority, the German military spokesman said that "a decision is approaching," but in Rome, Carlo Scorza, secretary general of the Fascist party, went a great deal farther.

"Whatever happens," he said, "we will fight with determination, with stubbornness, with fury and if necessary with ferocity until victory...

"If we must fall, we will see to it that we fall with firm dignity, with honor, so that those who follow us may continue to live with dignity and honor."

Peace, Scorza said, will be won by the people presenting themselves as the most impact, the most ordered and most disciplined.

one sector alone. At another point artillery supporting Russian infantry destroyed two German tanks, knocked out 20 Nazi artillery batteries, 30 machine gun nests and numerous blockhouses and pillboxes.

Mopping Up

In mopping up operations on another sector 350 enemy dead were counted in one captured inhabited locality. The Germans left 200 dead and wounded in another locality.

Four Nazi planes were shot down in dogfights over the battle area.

Actions generally of a minor nature, were reported on half a dozen other fronts.

West of Moscow on the central front 200 Germans were killed. Northwest of the Soviet capital, on the Kalinin front, Soviet scouts penetrated into Nazi positions to smash several blockhouses and take numerous prisoners.

At the northern end of the southern front, Soviet artillery smashed three German strongpoints west of Lgov, 50 miles west of Kursk. Four boats filled with German troops also were destroyed.

thrusts against the Japs this year and have been preparing against possible surprise enemy counter blows.

Since April 1, U. S. Army airmen in the North Pacific have blasted enemy bases in the western Aleutians more than 180 times in an offensive designed to check construction of Jap airfields on Kiska and Attu.

Daily Pound Jap Bases

In the South Pacific, Army, Navy and Marine airmen have continued their almost daily pounding of Jap bases in the central and northern Solomons, while Allied pilots from Australia continued their "non-stop" offensive.

Except for minor engagements, America's Pacific fleet has not been in action against the Japs since the Solomons campaign ended, but it undoubtedly is ready to strike again.

Japan may strike at Allied outposts in an effort to disrupt America's 1943 offensive plans, but recent developments indicated this nation was better prepared than ever to repel such blows.

Berlin claims that the United States has completed new bases in the Alaskan war zone may be a reflection of censor-cleared dispatches which reported American installations "within the shadow of Kiska."

ENEMY IS HURLED BACK TO GATES OF TUNIS AND BIZERTE

position to a point only 4½ miles from Ferryville, the naval base and military garrison which shields Bizerte.

Thrown Back to Last Defenses

Twenty-four hours after its great offensive was launched the British First Army had thrown the Axis back to its last Tunis defenses. Axis resistance at Bizerte was believed virtually immobilized by terrific American blows and inability of the Axis to detach reinforcements from Tunis to bolster the great seaport in the north.

British activity during the day centered about St. Cyprien, while American troops debouched among the Chouigui hills four miles from Tebourba, where fierce fighting was under way for possession of a strategic pass.

The relentless Allied onslaught gave the Axis no respite and gained momentum by the hour. Battlefront dispatches disclosed that forces of Great Britain's hardened First Army and American troops of the Second Army Corps supporting it had adopted as their battle-cry:

"Tunis and Bizerte next stop!"

Axis Falls Back

Unable to cope with the terrific artillery and aerial assaults unleashed by the Allies, the Axis line reeled, staggered and fell back. By dawn today United States Second Army Corps troops under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., had driven the Germans back along the south shores of Lake Achkel to within 4½ miles of Ferryville.

At the same time, this important garrison defending Bizerte was threatened by other American troops streaking across the Tunisian plains from Mateur.

Latest dispatches placed the British at the strategic road junction of St. Cyprien, only 12 miles from Tunis.

St. Cyprien was taken in a swift spurt by combined infantry and armor.

Bombs Blanket Area

Graphically describing the utter paralyzation of Axis forces by aerial attacks, a Royal Air Force observer said that bombs blanketed the area east of Massicault for hours, falling scarcely two yards apart.

From dawn until 9:30 a. m. yesterday the sky was darkened by Allied bombers, each wave heavily supported by fighter formations. The First Army moved ahead steadily under this encouraging air umbrella. The only resistance offered was by a single detachment of four German Fockewulfs which were quickly disposed of.

From Massicault the British went on to take Djebel Prendy, four miles to the southwest, and then fanned out along a 10-mile front. Meanwhile, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army attacked Djebel Saouf, nine miles north of Djebibina, but was handicapped by extensive minefields.

At dusk yesterday, the Americans had gained a foothold on the pass, but stout resistance still was being offered by the famed Barantine division of Col. Gen. Dietloff Von Arnim's Axis army.

Once the Americans break through here, Tebourba will be lost to the Axis.

Heavy Fighting

Heavy fighting also took place around Zarour, five miles southwest of Ferryville, where 300 German prisoners were taken and six heavy enemy anti-tank guns destroyed. One of them went out of action when an American tank rammed it head-on.

North of Lake Achkel, American troops took 250 additional Italian prisoners.

Every Axis effort to stem the Allied onslaught failed. Von Arnim made every effort to hold Massicault and even constructed a steel barricade by embedding his tanks in the sand. Allied tanks simply overrode the barricade.

Approaches from Tunis to Bizerte are now within the range of British and American guns, effectively preventing any mass movement of Axis troops northward even if Von Arnim decides to sacrifice Tunis in an effort to save Bizerte.

A day of bitter fighting yesterday placed Americans within four miles of the Djeceida road above Tebourba, while other Yank units battled against heavy machinegun and mortar fire south of Mateur.

Stiff resistance also was encountered at Zarour.

THE CANNON'S ROLE

ANNOUNCEMENT by Secretary of War Stimson that heavy artillery in preponderance will be needed to win the battles to be fought came with the disclosure that field artillery is playing a major role in the Battle of Tunisia, just as it did in enabling MacArthur to defend Bataan against overwhelming forces for months.

Artillery has been a deciding factor in every war since it was invented. Missiles from an exploding shell do not have to be aimed. They scatter death far and wide. The destructive power of a heavy shell will eventually level the best man-made defense or render its occupation by troops highly hazardous.

As a companion weapon to low flying and high flying bombers, the cannon will enable the United Nations to pound a hole in Hitler's European entrenchments big enough for armies to pour through. And in the race to determine which side can produce the most big guns the United States need have no fear that it will emerge second to the Nazis and their slaves.

The problem of feeding the big guns has but one facet in so far as the Allies are concerned—that of transportation. This problem will be conquered as the submarine menace is reduced and munitions plants are established closer to the battle fronts.

HITLER'S SLAVES GETTING RESTIVE

As American, British and French forces push the Germans and Italians into a fateful corner of North Africa, and the Axis betrays rising fears of a European invasion, the Hitler-dominated states of Bulgaria, Hungary and Norway are increasingly restive under the iron heel.

Every anti-Nazi incident in the enslaved countries, every bomb that rains down upon Dortmund, Essen and Berlin, brings closer the inevitable day when destiny will overtake Adolf Hitler and the murderers associated with him.

Now, more than ever before, the United Nations must remain united and, with every means available, speed the hour for the final, crushing blows.

BY AIR TO CONFERENCE

Presence in Washington of Lieutenant-General Joseph W. Stilwell and General Claire L. Chennault is a fresh example of the importance of air travel to prosecution of the war.

In no other war have the leaders of nations allied in war been able to come together so expeditiously and so easily for conferences that can settle in a few days what it would take weeks or even months to settle otherwise.

Just as the representatives of General MacArthur were able to bring a complete report from the Australian sector the other day, so now Generals Stilwell and Chennault give a report on the Chinese theatre.

Better yet, there can be that complete exchange of information and opinions which outweighs in value a mere factual report.

The men now in conference were thousands of miles apart a few days ago and will be as widely separated a few days hence, but the airplane permits them to keep their thoughts together and banishes the misunderstandings that might otherwise arise across the vast distances of this war.

OUR GENERALS DON'T DIE IN BED

When Lieutenant General Frank M. Andrews, as a pilot, was urged by friends to give up solo flying, his reply was "I don't want to be one of those generals who die in bed."

He wasn't. His death came in a plane crash in Iceland that also took the life of one of America's leading clergymen, Methodist Bishop Adna Wright Leonard, who had been touring U. S. military bases.

Generals don't die in bed in this war opines the Philadelphia Inquirer. The commander of all United States Army forces in the European theater was the eighth American general lost since Pearl Harbor. Nearly all of them were airmen, including such distinguished soldiers as Major General Tinker, Brigadier General George and Brigadier General Ramey.

The loss of Lieutenant General Andrews, highest ranking man on this list, will be severely felt. He occupied one of the top posts in the Army command, succeeding General Dwight D. Eisenhower. Since he took over in Britain, Army Air Force bombing has been tremendously stepped up, in keeping with his enthusiasm for the air arm. There have been repeated reports recently that the field of operations under his command would be the scene of even greater activity, with invasion of continental territory an ever present possibility.

General Andrews' death will, of course, entail no change in strategy. He will be replaced at the European post, as other fallen officers before him have been replaced, by those who will be inspired by his loss to a more intense determination to defeat the enemy.

INCREASING THE PRESSURE

America is approaching the one and one-half year point in the war with the conviction that, tough as its assignment is, the immediate trend of the struggle is favorable and growing more so.

In Tunisia, scene of the most intensive fighting in which the nation and its Allies are engaged, the campaign is thundering toward a triumphant conclusion which can not be more than a few weeks distant. From that victory will stem larger and harder campaigns for which America is earnestly and effectively preparing.

Developments in the Pacific continue to feature an accumulation of American power, with more critical battles by sea, land and air imminent. This country is assembling the means not only of holding Japan out of crashing successfully into the enemy's defenses. By the time the war has been won in Europe, America should be on so firm a military foundation in the Pacific that the concluding drive can get under way without delay.

As the arsenal of the United Nations, America is attaining a peak performance that is inspiring its war partners and steadily lowering Axis hopes to new depths. America's war production is becoming all that had been hoped for it, and this productivity includes the means of transporting weapons and supplies to the distant fronts.

This nation, with all its great driving force, is converting preparation into unprecedented power and there is rising assurance that every obstacle, however insuperable it may have seemed in the past, will be eyeled before it. America is steadily increasing the pressure on the Axis, in inexorable course that will be continued until the enemy cracks completely.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD MUST RESPECT OTHERS' RIGHTS

With few family cars available, ever so many children, many with their parents we hope, will be taking long hikes.

More than ever before, the gardens, orchards, fields of grain and hay, will be jeopardized this year. If you owned some of those areas you often would be exasperated at the wanton destruction to your property by children, even when with their parents.

Child Is Main Concern

Yet with due sympathy for the property owner, our main concern is about the injury to the moral character of the growing child who learns to be inconsiderate and destructive. Gates and fences can be replaced. New crops can be grown another year. But the damage to the child may never be entirely repaired. He has begun a practice which, if allowed to grow unchecked, can reach immeasurable proportions, even ending up in actual crime.

Parents who do not sense the seriousness of this problem, even some parents who are highly respected citizens in their home community, will ignore the complaints of the owner whose property they and their children appropriate, mar or destroy. Some of these parents will ridicule or abuse the owner right to their faces, their own children looking on. Or, if complaints come to these parents that their children have trespassed in some way, these parents may come to their child's defense and thereby suggest to the child he did no wrong.

Let me entreat you to put yourself in the annoyed owner's place, on whose property you and your children have trespassed. Then consider the moral character and citizenship of your child. Doing so, you will, by precept and example, be very exacting of yourself and your children. Should you discover that you or your child has done some damage unawares, hasten to reimburse the owner and apologize to him in deep humility. Then make clear to your child just what he must not do again. Ask the owner, in the presence of your child, to report to you if or when your child trespasses again. Right then and there name the penalty to the child should he prove guilty later. Then keep your word.

A good rule for you and your children is to walk over no property unless you are sure it is right to do so. When you have the least doubt, avoid it entirely or until you have permission of the owner. Express genuine appreciation for the privilege granted. Then be very careful about the gates, fences and everything else on that property.

I believe that such matters should be discussed at home, at school and Sunday school. They might be worthy of a place in a sermon from the pulpit.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should a ten-year-old child taking music lessons at home be required to practice regularly?

A. Of course, but for 30 minutes rather than an hour.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

The chairman of a draft board in New Jersey posted the names of every man who had been deferred by his board and the reason why.

Well why not? It's certainly in the public interest to know the grounds on which some of these fine young hercules have been exempted while their more anemic neighbors have been thrust into uniform.

A man who has been deferred by reason of his occupation, his health or because of dependency has no cause to be ashamed of it or to protest the posting of his name and the cause of his deferment.

The protests will come from the frauds and the fakes—the draft dodgers who are hiding behind some flimsy pretext which won't bear the light of publicity.

You can reach out in almost any direction in any community in the country and touch some lad who hasn't as much claim to exemption from military service as his grandmother.

And sometimes his claim is grandmother.

Thought for the day: Post 'em all—this isn't a private war.

What Noted People Say

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA — General Douglas MacArthur:

"Corregidor surrendered a full year ago. Intrinsically it is but a barren, war-worn rock, hallowed as so many other places by death and disaster. Yet it symbolizes within itself that priceless, deathless thing—the honor of a nation."

CHICAGO — Senator C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois:

"We may mass less manpower than the Axis, but the spirit of our soldiers is the spirit of free men and free men will outfight slaves any time, any where."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—General Dwight D. Eisenhower tells the U. S. Fifth Army:

"I know that in the days ahead you will make a greatful nation proud of you."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:59. Sun rises tomorrow 5:53.

Now the customer is always right when he cannot buy the things that he cannot get.

This country never faced a condition like it faces today. You should do all you can to save yourself and your country.

Some birds are more interested now in the next presidential election than they are in winning the war. Most of us will be satisfied with most anyone for president if the war is won.

HAD IT ALL READY

Down in superior court they were trying a damage action. A witness had testified that he saw the whole thing and was now under severe cross-examination.

"Now just how far were you from the scene of the accident?" snapped the lawyer.

"Twenty-six feet and 8 inches," the witness answered.

"How do you know so exactly?" demanded the lawyer.

"Well, I sort of figured some darn fool would ask me that question," the witness replied, "so I measured it."

A local man told his wife the rhubarb in his garden was ready for use some weeks ago and he has not had any of it to eat yet. Oh, sugar!

When we are in trouble it is either our fault or we let some other people get us into it.

Remember when some people kept an onion hanging on the chandelier to keep disease away?

SOMETHING STRANGE

Street car conversation:

First woman: "I'm going to have to do something about my face and hair. I'm beginning to look old."

Second woman: "Why, I don't think you look so old."

First woman: "There must be something wrong. Men are beginning to offer me a seat on the street car."

"My boy friend is getting along swell in the army," said dumb Dora. "He hit a sergeant the other day and they've made him a court martial."

A friend described Hollywood to us in this way: "It's a place where they get married in order to secure a divorce so they can get married." Sounds silly, doesn't it?

Men owe their resolution, and most of their success, to the opposition they meet with.

Visitor—And what do you think of the modern girls, Uncle Eli?

Uncle Eli—Well, to be truthful, I gave up thinking about girls nigh on two years ago. You see, I'm nearly 100 years old.

Many a little squirt makes himself seem a somebody merely by tormenting big men till they foolishly answer his criticism.

A South Side man was called a smart alec when he was in his teens, but now he is called an old fool.

Two thieves were talking. "What has become of your partner?" "I had to fire him—he wasn't playing square with me."

There's a stillness in a doctor's waiting room that is depressing. I was in one a few days ago that was filled with patients, who were waiting their turns. Not a word was being spoken. Finally a man spoke up and said "Ladies and gentlemen, let's have a 'pep' meeting or something to put everybody in a better frame of mind." Several laughed and then they began talking. From that time on everybody present seemed to be having a good time. A smart idea, I say.—One Who Was There.

You can bet on one thing sure and that is if some of your relations do not pay any attention to you while you are living they will not miss you when you are gone.

What do you think our boys in the army think of strikes in war plants in this country?

When you meet a soldier on the street, speak to him whether you know him or not. He will be glad.

An army sergeant, in command of a detail of soldiers the other morning, got the surprise of his life. He was barking orders to the men and counting step for his group when a little old woman walked up to him, in front of the postoffice and said:

"You stop that yelling at those boys that way."

And there are still people who want to eat everything they see.

A local bird who insists that he does not snore, and also that he has a terrible case of insomnia, recently slept so soundly and snored so loudly that a guest in his home had to resort to the use of sleeping tablets.

Some people still think they are lucky if they can get all the booze they want to drink and all the gas they want to run a car.

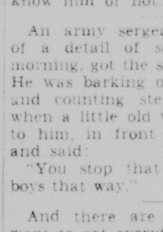
REPETITION OF COMPLIMENTS

"Don't you think one of the most annoying of feminine traits is the habit our sex has of repeating compliments received? For instance, this one: 'Last night, George told me that my figure is as good as Dorothy Lamour's. Or, 'I met a man, last night, who told me that I am really Hedy Lamarr's double. So many women repeat masculine flattery that I was wondering if a little hint from your column might do some good."—Lucy.



Answer: In addition to its being silly, it is the height of conceit to repeat flattering remarks about yourself. Every woman, no matter how mediocre her physical charm, is flattered by some man. For even the plainest woman is bound to find a man who will think she is super . . . who will see some charm or attractiveness in her that is indiscernible to other eyes. Women who are not used to compliments are so surprised when one or two come their way that they are likely to take them too seriously.

So if you want to bore others completely and make yourself extremely unpopular, keep up a repetition of all the lovely things that have been said to you. There is no surer way of losing your friends who will think that you are obnoxiously conceited to compare yourself so favorably with noted beauties.

Question: My uncle is to be married next month. What is proper for me to say to him and his fiancee?—Dot.

Answer: Wish both of them good luck and happiness.

Question: When is the correct time and where are the right places to wear dress gloves?—L. K.

Answer: At any occasion demanding dress clothes.

HITLER'S RESERVATION

Hitler called the Devil on the telephone one day.
The girl at Central listened to all they had to say.
'Hello, 'tis Hitler speaking, is Old Man Satan Home?
Just tell him it's the Dictator who wants him on the 'phone."
The Devil said, "Howdy, Dolf," and Hitler said, "How are you, I'm running Hell and Earth so tell me what to do."
"What can I do?" the Devil said, Dear old pal of mine,
You don't need any help from me your doing mighty fine."
"Yes, I was doing fairly well until some time ago,
When a man named Uncle Sam told me to go slow.
He said to me, 'Dear Hitler, we don't want to be unkind
But you've raised hell enough so you had better change your mind
I thought his Lease Plan a bluff. He'd never get through.
But soon he put me on the spot when he told me what to do.
So that's why I called you, Satan, I need advice from you
For I know that you can tell me exactly what to do."
Satan said, "Dear Partner, there is not much left to tell,
For Uncle Sam can make it hotter there than I can here in hell.
I've been a real old Devil, but not half as mean as you
So the minute you get down here the job is yours to do.
I'll be ready for your coming and I'll keep the fires allbright;
I'll get your room all ready as soon as Sam begins to fight;
I know your days are numbered—there's nothing left to tell—
Hang up your 'phone—Put on your hat—And come on down to hell."

—Author unknown.

Note—Sometime ago we printed the above poem. We have just been told by Mrs. Belle Crowl, R. D. 4, New Castle that it was written by Private Raymond Thies while he was a patient in the hospital at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland. That is the reason we are reprinting it.

In some places girls under 17 years of age are not allowed on the streets after 10 or 11 o'clock at night. If caught they are escorted home by a policeman.

"I'll bet you and your boy friend were plenty mad when that skunk spoiled your picnic today."

"Yeah, we were both highly incensed!"

The trouble with the straight and narrow path is that you run into so many crooks on it.

You may not like to do some things now, but you had better do them or do things you like less later on.

He's just found out what was the matter with the lima beans he planted in his garden last year. He planted them wrong side up.

Most drinking is an escape for those who have leisure and can't think of any other way to kill time.

Bureaucrat: "If we don't figure out a way to spend that two hundred and fifty million, we'll lose our job."

His Secretary: "How about a bridge over the Mississippi—lengthwise?"

"We were surrounded by natives," related the explorer. "They uttered savage cries, danced madly and pounded the earth with their clubs." "Sounds like golf," said a listener.

Tax Collections Will Slip In June
Many Borrowed To Pay Tax In March
"Pay-Go" Plan Will Not Help Them

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 7 — June income tax collections are not going to be as satisfactory as March's were, according to a very practical group of economists—the country's small loan men, or "sharks" as they are called by folks who dare to antagonize them.

For the information of the few earners whose stipends are too trifling to be hit by this tax, it should be pointed out that the levy is made on an annual basis, but that the victims may pay it quarterly if they choose. Whether or not they really did choose to split the agony up into four installments, a lot of them elected to do it that way this year. It is not hard to understand why they did so, either, considering the dent that a total payment, at the present juncture, is calculated to make in the average individual's bank account.

Well, Uncle Sam's collections were rather unexpectedly satisfactory at the middle of March.

The reason is explained by the small loan people. Most of the money was borrowed in little chunks of $100 or so, and now is being paid for at the approximate rate of 2 per cent monthly.

The 2 per cent is not so bad, but a great majority of the borrowers probably had their savings pretty well cleaned out for principal deficiencies and will have to borrow again from scratch in June. This will make the second quarter worse for them than the first, and the third and fourth will be still more painful. Meanwhile the "loan shark" will be correspondingly additionally cautious.

The sharks are worried about it already.

The infernal thing is cumulative. "Pay-go" legislation won't lift the load. It comes too late.

March 15's collections, then, were fairly good. June's will be less so. The third will cause a distinct ache; the fourth a super-ache.

In the course of a generation doubtless we will have adapted ourselves, but not for quite a while. The popular theory is that the pinch will pass with the war's end. Practical economic betting is that it will continue indefinitely afterward. Governmental economists speak of it as a mere emergency. Loan sharks seem to think it will last for a couple of lifetimes.

The government's dope is that, the war over, there will be such an accumulated demand for civilian supplies that industry will be forced to hump itself to meet requirements. All authorities agree that requirements will be tremendous.

But will civiliandom be able to pay for what it wants?

Supplying it won't do any good, if the public can't foot the bills.

Won't it be the same old thing as after the last war?

There was a demand then, but no market. Folk needed the stuff, but couldn't pay for it.

The supposition is that, in today's instance, preliminary fixing has been more skillful than during World War I. However, while World War I was in a class by itself and its aftermath couldn't be reckoned with, so is this a war by itself—incomparable with anything hitherto.

It is cheerful to assume that now is the one time that we have insured against as to the future.

What stumps me is—

Why are scientific economists so confident in advance, whereas the loan boys are so skeptical?

LETTER-WAITING

Time was it little mattered did he stop or pass us by.
What the postman used to bring us was the common
run of stuff.
To something we had written there might be a friend's reply.
Next week or even later for such notes was soon enough.
We didn't run to meet him when the monthly bills he'd bring
Or the advertising matter,
"second-class" I think they pay.
But we're waiting every morning
now to hear the door bell
ring
And we're watching out for letters since the boy has gone away!

I didn't stop the postman down
the street and ask to see
If he had some special letter
for I didn't greatly care,
For whatever mail he carried, night
was soon enough for me;
We've a table in the hall-way
and I'd surely find it there
Now we watch to see him coming.
You can guess the reason
why.
And there's something very pleasing in that uniform of gray,
But we're sad and heavy-hearted
when he has to pass us by.
We are anxious now for letters
since the boy has gone away.

Oh, we know the postman knows it, as he walks along the street,
Knows the mothers' eyes are on him through the windows
where they wait.
He can guess the sort of welcome
he is on his way to meet
When he has that precious letter you can tell it by his gait.
Though I should be at the office,
for the town I seldom start
I linger at my doorway for the postman every day.
For the business of the morning
now I haven't any heart
Till I know if there's a letter from the boy who's far away.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THE PERSISTANT PURPOSE

From the very outset of the present administration, President Roosevelt has shown an undeviating policy of eventually centralizing all governmental functions in the office of the Presidency of these United States.

The National Recovery Act, known immediately as the NRA, was the first effort made to accomplish this purpose, and while that act has been declared unconstitutional, the purposes contained in that act have been evident in every subsequent move of the President. After the supreme court has rendered thir decision declaring the National Recovery Act unconstitutional, it has since been ascertained that in connection with this act, while it was working under the direction of the late General Hugh Johnson, it was considered to be in force and every move was directed to the enforcement of the act. There were more than even hundred codes and supplemental codes, nearly two thousand presidential executive orders, more than twelve thousand NRA orders created, not by any requirement of Congress, but solely by executive orders of the President and carrying penalties of fine and imprisonment, all having the force and effect of an act of Congress, and all comprised in nearly eighteen thousand printed pages of executive law, exceeding in quantity more than all the statutes passed by Congress since the foundation of the Republic, and more than twice the volume of all congressional legislation now in force.

The industrial planning, as evidenced by that act and by subsequent acts, particularly in the establishment of all the bureaus now existing in the government of this nation, is not industrial planning of the individual type, the sort of planning every business executive does in the conduct of his own business, but it is governmental planning with the full force of coercive government compulsion and undertakes to regiment hours, wages and conditions of employment, production and distribution, in what were previously competitive trades and industries.

Are not all of these purposes still

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A three-column headline struck me:

"New Treatment by Herb Vapors is Developed as Quick First Aid to Tired Face and Hair," it read.

With it went a two-column picture of a well groomed young blonde who looked as if she had never done a day's work in her life, and the caption said, among other things: "The treatment involves resting under a canopy, while a vapor from hot herbs plays around the head and hair."

I thought of my grandmother whom I remember so well—standing over the kitchen-stove cooking delightful dishes, and vapors from hot herbs played around her head and hair.

She was not resting under a canopy. She was always busy, moving around, doing something, looking after the home, after the family.

But she, too, like the caption of the picture said, had no lines, no dry skin, no scalp condition.

She was always fresh and rosy-cheeked (I'm sure she used no rouge) and even at eighty, she still looked as appetizing and nice as a ripe apple.

But be that as it may, I am glad that even in these days of war beauty, dress and appearance deserve a three-column headline in a big metropolitan newspaper.

It isn't just heroics and sacrifice that will make us win this war.

It is just as much our good, old common sense, and particularly our sense of balance.

Women don't have to be ugly, to be useful. Sack cloth and ashes are signs of mourning and despair.

Let our women do all they can. Let them be WAACS and WAVES and SPARS. Let them wear uniforms and gas masks and march in line.

But I hope that in the kit of every woman who goes to war or helps in the war there is rouge and powder and nail polish, a bit of perfume, and a supply of pink step-ins.

Let us give our men bullets and bombs and planes and ships.

And let us be sure to give our women plenty of cosmetics and silken things.

For of that the spirit of 1943—the spirit of victory is made!

SIX OF GREGOR FAMILY ACTIVE IN WAR EFFORT

Fifth Son Of Mrs. Harry H. Gregor Leaves For U. S. Navy Saturday

Special honors should go to Mrs. Harry H. Gregor of 1120 Cunningham avenue on this year's wartime Mother's Day. Not only is she the mother of 11 children, but she has contributed over half of them to our nation's war effort. Her fifth son to enter the armed forces is Harry, who leaves Saturday for duty in the U. S. navy. A sixth, George, works in a war plant in Ellwood City.

The brothers in service whom Harry will follow are: Technical Staff Sergeant John Gregor of the National Guard, stationed in Washington (state), who enlisted in January, '41; Second Lieut. Richard Gregor, U. S. M. NO SHORT WEIGHT ARRESTS

Sixteen adjustments were made of weights and measures here during April, according to C. R. Balph, sealer of weights and measures. No arrests were made.

Food slogan: Millions of helpings for energy, but not one bite for pleasure.

Co-Operation Of Liquor Men Here Shows Good Results

Apparently liquor dealers' co-operation with Mayor Charles B. Mayne during April brought good results and only 50 persons appeared before His Honor on any charge in which liquor was concerned. Some weeks ago a large number of the men who sell liquor agreed to close their places of business promptly at midnight.

According to the mayor's April report to council today the record shows:

Twenty-six arrests for plain drunkenness.

Twenty arrests for drunkenness plus disorderly conduct.

Four arrests for drunkenness plus fighting.

FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIVE PAY METER FINE

Tag, tag, who wants a tag?

This apparently was the game played by police last month because 455 were accredited with having paid a fine for violating the parking meter ordinance.

However, the 455 doesn't represent the number given out. There were more than 455 because in police traffic court there usually are a few, armed with a good excuse, who are excused from paying a fine.

POLICE RECEIPTS $1,031.10

Police receipts for the month of April amounted to $1,031.10, according to a report to council made by Mayor Charles B. Mayne today.

Vice President Of European Company Worries At Corry

E. L. Kincaid Has Had No Word Of Cosmetic Business Since Last Fall

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., May 6—Business may be going on as usual or it may have completely folded up, but Elmer L. Kincaid of Corry doesn't know at all how he stands with his company. Before the war Kincaid was the wealthy vice president of Tokalon Co., Europe's largest manufacturers of cosmetics and toilet articles.

Kincaid hasn't heard from the company since his last letter dated Oct. 20, 1942. Business was good, the letter said, in every country except Greece, Holland, and Italy. As far as he knows the Germans haven't taken over his interests in the company, but Kincaid is afraid they have occupied his home in France the Chateau D'Azur at Nice, and removed or destroyed his valuable collection of fine paintings.

While his home was in France Kincaid travelled all about Europe visiting branch offices. He went to Berlin every three weeks. Although he stayed in Europe until the fall of 1940, he experienced only one bombing raid, one near Toulon when the French fleet was being bombed there. He and other train passengers took refuge in the woods.

Kincaid doesn't know yet why he was allowed to take his money out of Germany just a month before the war in August, 1939.

Davis Tells Byrnes Farm Labor Adequate

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Chester C. Davis, food administrator, today assured Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes that America's supply of farm labor is sufficient to achieve the crop goals of 1943.

Davis reported that the 1943 farm machinery situation was "not entirely satisfactory in view of the high productive goals, but that steps have been taken which would improve the situation."

exhibited in every act of the President? Just consider the dictatorial act of the President when he declared that the maximum salary paid to any executive, any officer or any employee of any institution in the United States should be in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars net, after income tax payment had been made by the recipient of the salary. And this order emanated from the President after Congress has absolutely refused to pass such an act limiting salaries paid. And then consider the very evident resentment on the part of the President when Congress by its act, absolutely and unequivocally, repudiated that order.

There seems to be no question in the minds of political leaders but what the President in the event he determines not to run for a fourth term intends to force, if possible, the nomination of Vice President Henry Wallace for the presidency by the Democratic party's national convention.

And how would the people of the United States like to have that same Henry Wallace as its President?

Child, 6, Killed, Brother Wounded In Custody Fight

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex., May 7.—A six-year-old Louise Beaumont Martin, was shot and killed Thursday and her 7-year-old brother, Watt, 3rd, was wounded as the climax of a court battle between their estranged parents over the children's custody.

The mother, known in Dallas as Mrs. K. Frailey, told police that she could not bear to see the children taken from her by their father. She bought a pistol, and the shooting occurred at her rooming place just before noon Thursday.

The court had awarded custody of the children six months each year to each parent. Watt Martin of Miami Beach, Fla., the father, had planned to take the children to his home Thursday afternoon.

McNutt Opposed To 'Draft Women' Bill

Asserts Voluntary Methods Adequate For Manpower Needs At This Time

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Paul V. McNutt, manpower chieftain, went on record Thursday against the Austin-Wadsworth "draft women" bill, telling the house military affairs committee he believed voluntary methods to meet the manpower situation were ample at this time.

At the same time McNutt testified that an estimated 2,700,000 new workers needed this year must come from the ranks of mothers, preferably without small children.

The manpower chief disclosed that some 4,000,000 women already have "indicated a willingness to take jobs."

Declining to testify at length on the Austin-Wadsworth measure for compulsory draft of civilian men and women for war work, McNutt however, answered one direct question by Rep. Clason (R) Mass., who asked if this bill or any other is needed now.

"I do not feel it is at this time," McNutt replied. "No one can prophesy what the demands of the war will be. If I feel it is needed later, I will appear before the committee and express my views."

He conceded that compulsory registration of women may become necessary later on.

Lewis Is Silent On Wage Dispute

NEW YORK, May 7.—John L. Lewis president of the United Mine Workers of America maintained grim silence today on all questions involving the coal wage controversy now before the National War Labor Board.

He was not available for any statement concerning a possible radio talk to the nation in which he would outline the miner's case to the general public. It is known, however, that the policy committee of the union authorized Lewis some time ago to buy "time" on National radio chains and give the miner's side of the story at any time he saw fit.

Blackout Test Thursday Night

Second Surprise Air Raid Drill In One Day Throughout State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 7.—With two statewide drills within 12 hours yesterday, the State Defense Council served notice today that it was stepping up air raid defenses in preparation against the possibility of "a real raid".

The shrill sound of sirens caught Pennsylvanians completely unaware yesterday morning in a daylight test and again last night. The daytime alert lasted for a record 38 minutes from 10:21 to 10:59 a. m., while the blackout test was on for 49 minutes, from 8:40 to 9:29 p. m.

"We want the people to be ready at all times," Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, executive director of the State Defense Council, announced following the first of the two tests. "When the air raid sirens sound in Pennsylvania it may be a real raid. Both Japan and Italy have been making formal threats to raid the United States and we must be more than ever on the alert."

Hutchison also revealed that all future tests will be held without any notice to the public which will therefore be unable to tell whether it is a practice alert or the real thing. "This is in the interest of realism and it also creates a great deal more interest on the part of the Citizens Defense Corps," Hutchison explained.

Japs Yielding Air Supremacy In China To American Pilots

U. S. 14th Air Force Maintains Twelve To One Ratio In Air Attacks

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Japanese air supremacy in China—as in the southwest Pacific—is being neutralized today by the mounting combat superiority of American pilots.

Lieut. Col. Herbert Morgan, assistant chief of staff and operations officer for the 14th Air Force in China, reported that Army airmen have maintained more than a 12-to-1 ratio in combat and ground attacks on Japanese aircraft since July 4, 1942.

Relating the drama details of a raid November 27, 1942, on the great Japanese Pearl river base at Canton, Col. Morgan said:

"There we met the Japanese on something like even terms. They had 30 to 25 fighter planes and we had 10 bombers and 23 fighter planes. We're still embarrassed because we let two or three of them get away that day. We also destroyed two 8,000-ton steamers and about 50 barges.

"No one was even hit on our side, except a photographer who caught a spent bullet in the seat of his pants which burned him slightly. He wears the bullet for a watch charm now.

"We're making it an all-out fight out there. We just stay in there and slug, with no thought of anything but giving them everything we've got. No one wants to be a prisoner of war."

Col. Morgan lives in Freedom, Pa. He was graduated from Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1934, and served at Langley Field, Va., Puerto Rico, and Bolling Field, Washington, before going overseas in March, 1942.

Suggest Lewis Outline Stand

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 7—A suggestion by a representative of Coal Czar Harold L. Ickes that John L. Lewis make a radio address outlining his wage controversy with the nation's coal operators and then agree for the sake of national unity to submit his demands to the War Labor Board was being carried to the United Mine Workers president today.

This development came as a three-man panel of the WLB began the second day of its hearings into the dispute with Lewis shunning the meetings. Whether the Ickes representative was acting with or without the consent of the interior secretary was not known. However, the suggestion was made to a person who can reach Lewis' ear and it was being transmitted.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

The Bigwigs of the OCD were on the job yesterday during the test air drill. Yes, folks, L. B. Round, director of county OCD and D. O. Davies, director of the city OCD were on the street, getting first sight information as to how the members of the organization conducted affairs. D. O. Davies took a position at Mill and East street and L. B. R. meandered through the business district.

Yours truly, caught in a coffee shop, decided also to do a little investigation and lolled in the doorway as a comely appearing air raid warden approached. Puffin' a cigarette while we stood in the doorway she stopped then courteously said: "The 'raid' is on. Will you kindly step inside and close the door because of the probability of gas. Thank you" the young lady said as we did as directed. She was Mrs. Nancy Thayer of the Seventh ward, an instructor.

Our eyes also focused upon the pleasant Frank Sargent, city co-ordinator "hot-footin'" to various sections. We espied the aforesaid coordinator accompany one gentleman to a place of shelter. In fact, Mr. Sargent opened the door for the gentleman.

It was a test raid, yes, but what if it had been the real thing? Obedience to the OCD regulations is one sure way of doing your duty.

Last night's test Black-out, like the one during daylight, was wholly unexpected. However, when the first siren sounded some people did not wait for the Up-and-Down to obey. Air raid wardens and auxiliary police were on the job.

State Will Aid In Black Market Fight

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 7.—A special committee named by Gov. Edward Martin was working today to draft a program to eliminate "black markets" in cooperation with New York state officials headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

The governor said, however, that while Pennsylvania would cooperate with New York he did not believe "legislation will be needed to carry out the state's program toward elimination of black markets." The governor did not disclose the committee's membership.

Governor Dewey urged the cooperation of officials in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and the New England area to enforce O. P. A. price ceilings and other regulations.

Allot $11,380 For Township Roads In Lawrence County

Payments For Upkeep Of Roads In Second Class Townships Made Under State Act

HARRISBURG, May 7.—Requisition for the payment of $11,380.35 from the state motor license fund to the second-class townships of Lawrence county has been prepared by the Department of Highways, Secretary John U. Shroyer announced Thursday.

Total payment of $1,062,500 for the building and repair of roads will be made to all such townships in the state. The payment is due June 1.

The 1941 session of the General Assembly appropriated $8,500,000 to be paid the townships for the years 1942 and 1943 from the motor fund for construction and maintenance of roads under the supervision of the township supervisors. Under the act, Secretary Shroyer said, supervisors are required to submit two reports to the Department of Highways this year—one on May 31 and the other on November 30—showing the cost of the work. The remaining payments for this year will be made in September and December.

There are 45,137 miles of road in the Commonwealth under the jurisdiction of the township supervisors. The allocation for 1943 amounts to $94.15 for each mile of road now under the jurisdiction of the second-class township supervisors.

Forms Are Ready For Farmers Who Sell Butter Here

At various times the ration board has stressed the necessity of farmers collecting ration points for meats, butter, fats and cheese sold by them. Today it is announced by the War Price and Rationing Board office in the Aiken school, Pearson street, that forms are now available by which farmers must report the amount of such rationed foods they have disposed of.

It is pointed out that the transfer of rationed foods without points is black marketing. The report blanks furnished enables the producer to show his production and return to the Office of Price Administration the points collected.

These report blanks are now available to farmers in the local ration office, in the State Bank of Bessemer, the First National Bank of Volant, and the office of the New Wilmington Globe.

Babson Sees Middleman Holding Good Position

By ROGER W. BABSON

(Copyright, 1943, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 7.—I am receiving many letters from readers who are concerned over the ultimate size of our national debt. They wonder how this huge debt and inflation will affect their business and investments. Hence, I shall devote my column today to a brief analysis of the situation.

BABSON

Our national debt now amounts to $135,000,000,000. By the end of 1943 it will approach $160,000,000,000. What happens after that depends largely upon the length of the war. As I expect the German phase of the war to run at least until November, 1944, and it will take a year or more after that to finish up with the Japs, we may see our national debt reach $300,000,000,000. At the end of the war, under a proper administration, government borrowing should drop off sharply. We may then see some reduction in the size of our debt. Ultimately, however, somebody has got to pay it off. Where is the money coming from?

The funds with which to reduce our national debt cannot be pulled out of the air. They must come from something real. The only real property our nation has consists of its land plus its forests, its mines, its oil and other tangible goods embraced in the earth. In the aggregate, this land of ours is worked and made to yield capital largely through the efforts of the farmers. Hence, I believe in the end that the farmers and other land owners, through increased taxes, will have to take care of the bulk of our national debt. The other group which must help pay the debt are the wage earners who process the products of the land. The merchants and other legitimate middlemen will be pretty much exempt.

What About the Investor?

The investor—particularly the one who is living upon rents and interest—will surely get stuck. In fact, as inflation rises and long before we make an honest attempt to minimize its evil effect, bondholders will especially feel the pinch. In spite of legislation commodity prices will continue to rise and the investor's so-called "unearned" income will continue to buy less. Furthermore, his taxes, upon the dividends and interest which he receives will continue high. Unless the man who is now dependent solely upon such income for support can get some kind of a job to supplement his unearned income, he will be out of luck.

The average wage earned who has invested in war bonds at a discount will automatically increase his capital over a ten-year period and hence will be a little better off than the investor who has spent his income. Furthermore, wages are now approaching a peak and either will decline as I pointed out in my article of two weeks ago or else be counterbalanced by higher inflationary prices. All attempts to fix rents, wages or prices by legislation or regulations is the bunk. In the end, both farmers and wage workers get only what they raise and manufacture by their sweat and toil. Too bad, but this is true!

Who Is In the Best Position?

Considering all of our farmers, workers, investors, manufacturers, and jobbers, retailers and other types of businessmen, the merchandising group are most favorably situated. This is the group that buys from the manufacturer and sells to the ultimate consumer. They include the chain stores, department stores and the smallest shop-keepers. Those selling household goods, paints, plumbing fixtures and every other article come under this category. Did you ever ask yourself why salesmen have never formed a labor union? The answer is "because they get the cream automatically without a labor union."

In the sight of God, Vice President Wallace is absolutely correct in believing that we should build up the industries of foreign countries and lower our tariffs on goods coming into the United States from those countries. This, however, presents the very serious alternative of shutting off our own people, or the peoples of other nations, from earning a living. Already our wide-awake manufacturers have discovered that by having a plant in one foreign country they can sell the products of this plant to the people of a second foreign nation far cheaper than they can manufacture the same goods in the United States and export them. The next step will be for them to harness this cheap foreign labor to make goods for importing into this country.

Advantages of the Middlemen

The merchant, however, under the capitalistic system, cares little whether the goods which he sells are made in the United States or in Europe or Asia; he sells them just the same and gets his profit. When he can't make a profit he sells something else. He receives a tax bill and mails a check in payment therefor; but this tax money does not come out of him. He merely adds it to the price of his goods and passes the tax along to the farmers, wage workers and investors. All this means that with a huge government debt and a capitalistic system, good merchants and their employes and those who invest in their securities should be the best off during the next 20 years.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 7.—A permissive measure appropriating $3,000,000 to extend capitol park more than eight blocks probably will be passed by the legislature before it adjourns. . . . Sponsored by Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, of Dauphin, the Republican state chairman, the measure orginally called for an expansion of only four blocks under a $2,000,000 appropriation, but the figure was boosted and the area extended to enlarge the park to include the $1,217,000 liquor control board building. . . . Unfortunately the capitol buildings are bounded on one side by the railroad tracks and on another by a packing house and Rococo buildings. . . . The expansion contemplates the removal of the buildings and the abbatoir.

The main capitol group was completed with the erection of the $4,825,000 finance building in 1939. . . . The group is composed of the e-shaped main building, the educational building, the north and south office buildings and the finance building. . . . However, their beauty is marred by five temporary two-story buildings erected during the first World War and still used to house the overflow of office workers. The architects plans for the capitol include a broad plaza between the north and south buildings where the temporary shacks now stand.

The Pennsylvania Economy League has submitted to Gov. Edward Martin an analysis of teachers' salaries in Pennsylvania disclosing long-range war-time trends and their relationship to the earning and purchasing powers of other groups. . . . Made at the governor's request, the survey pointed out that one of the difficulties surrounding teachers' salaries was the fact that they only worked about 200 days a year while other groups were employed approximately 300. . . . The league said that while the short school year enabled the teachers to seek wartime employment "no figures are available to calculate the income from such sources and make the teachers over-all earnings truly comparable to the income of persons in private employment."

The survey was prompted by the Cordier-Hare bill proposing to increase teachers' salaries to meet rising living costs. . . . However, the league claims that teachers' salaries suffered very little during the last 11 years . . . "Total payments for salaries dropped from $101,513,798 in 1932 to $89,608,434 in 1935 but regained the $101,000,000 level by 1938 and have since increased." . . . The league told the governor that "because living costs dropped sharply during the depression, the actual buying power or real income of Pennsylvania teachers really reached a peak during the depression years". . . Since 1920, it was claimed the average annual salary of teachers increased from $909 to $1639. . . . The league pointed out however that in 1920 teachers' salaries aggregated only $40,785,528 but in 1940 the total was $102,545,674 although the number of teachers increased only 50 per cent. during the same period

BRIDGE REPAIRS

The sidewalk on the west side of the Mill street bridge is nearing completion. The repairs started last fall but inclement weather forced a postponement of the work. The concrete is poured and in a short time the work should be finished.

Repairs on the Grant street and West Side bridges will be started soon and a number of bridges in the rural districts will be repaired. The county commissioners have succeeded in getting a priority for 4,000 tons of bituminous material for topping bridge decks.

NO NEW TRIAL

In an opinion handed down by Judge W. Walter Braham, Frank Servedio is refused a new trial in a claim for damages. Mr. Servedio lives in Hickory township and when highway No. 37023 was improved some damage was done to his hand. He refused to take the viewers' award and after a jury trial was awarded a total of $2,317.66. This he considers insufficient and he moved for a new trial. The court felt there was no justification for a new trial and refused the motion.

TAX DUPLICATES

Clerks in the county commissioners' office have completed duplicates for boro, and township, road and school taxes. Other tax duplicates are being prepared.

'Big Inch' Oil Line Stretches Length Of State

Historic Trials Followed By 24-Inch Pipeline Now Under Construction

HARRISBURG, May 7.—Stretching across the entire length of Pennsylvania from a point south of Washington on the western border to nearly the exact spot where Washington crossed the Delaware river to surprise the Hessians, the "Big Inch" pipe line follows historic trails on its way to the oil refineries of Philadelphia and New York according to the State Department of Commerce.

The 24-inch line which is expected to carry 150,000 barrels of crude oil daily to Pennsylvania refineries, enter Pennsylvania just a few miles from the site of an old tavern where Lafayette rested in 1825 and then burrows beneath route 40, near Brownsville, a few miles from Perryopolis, home of an old grist mill owned by Washington at the time of his death.

Passes Fort Necessity

Paralleling the Maryland-Pennsylvania state line the "Big Inch" heads east just a few miles north of the Fort Necessity battlefield where the French and Indian war started, where Washington fought his first battle and near the site of General Braddock's grave.

Crossing route 220 not far from Charlesville, site of age-old mineral springs, the pipe line then follows the Cumberland Valley trail over which huge pack trains once carried goods from Philadelphia to Fort Pitt. In this same valley the line runs near the famous road that Braddock had built to speed his fight against the French and Indians. Once called the Great Virginia road and later renamed Braddock's road, it passed near McDowell's mill, in what is now Franklin county, went around Parnell's and Jordan's Knobs into Path valley, Cowan's Gap, past Burnt Cabins and Sugar Cabins to Sideling hill.

North To York, Lancaster

After passing south of McConnelsburg and Chambersburg in making the crossing over South mountain the big line then skirts Caledonia State park, tilts northward to pass by York, the nation's capital in 1777, burrows under the Susquehanna river and then bends farther north to by-pass Lancaster, the national capital for one day, and capital of the state for nearly 13 years.

The "Big Inch" then turns northeast to Ludwig Corners, where a 20-inch feeder line will carry oil to the refineries in the Philadelphia area, while the 24-inch main continues on to Valley Forge, Doylestown and across the Delaware river.

REVOLVER ENDS LIVES OF 44 ROAMING DOGS

Asks Pan-American Interparliamentary Union Of Senators

President Of Bolivia Acclaimed For Speech In Senate Asking Stronger Ties

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 7 — President Enrique Penaranda of Bolivia, whose nation has declared war on the Axis, on Thursday proposed in a speech in the senate that an American interparliamentary union be established to help preserve democracy in the Western Hemisphere.

Applauded vigorously as he mounted the senate rostrum, General Penaranda urged ever increasing ties between North and South America.

"Now that an era of closer political, cultural, and economic interchange has, fortunately, been initiated, it is the task of the lawmaking bodies of the new world to strengthen our ties of friendship and understanding, by playing an ever increasing role in the external relations of our country," he said.

"This could be accomplished through an American interparliamentarian union.

"We are governments of the people and by the people. It is for the people, therefore, to decide future by seeking inspiration in the conscience in which God has endowed every human being, and which finds its purest expression when liberty and justice shine triumphant upon the earth."

KITES

What a thrill to be able to fly a kite away up out of sight.

Who tells the boys when it is kite time?

Kite flying combines skill with exercise. It has to be done in the open air too.

Kite tournaments would be fine.

When Bill comes in from flying his kite he is hungry as three bears. See that he gets the right stuff to eat. How about a glass of milk and a ham sandwich with mixed pickle?

Mixed pickle of onions and carrots and broccoli and beans tastes fine. Maybe an orange or an apple or a dish of ice cream would help some. How about having come cup custard on hand for Bill's snacks? Junket tastes good too.

Maybe Bill would like to make himself an oyster stew. Show him how and he will get a kick out of it. He will also get some copper which he needs to make him grow.

He won't wash his hands first unles you insist.

If he goes up in the air about it he is a kite.

'Keep Busy' Says Mrs. Chennault To Young Army Wives

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 7 — "Keep Busy" and "Learn to take it" was the formula offered on Thursday to young wives whose husbands are overseas by Mrs. Claire Chennault, wife of the flying general who has six sons in the armed forces.

"I have lived at army posts since 1917. Gen. Chennault and I have watched the air force grow from a few biplanes, tied together with baling wire, to the flying fortresses of today," said Mrs. Chennault.

"During that time," she added, "I have seen a lot of wives take bad news. Women who have been part of army life for a long time learn to take it. They have to. They couldn't go on being afraid every time their husbands went up.

"But the best thing to do is to keep busy. Then you don't have much time to think for that person. I think war work, aside from its value to the country, is very important for young wives whose husbands are overseas. It gives them something to concentrate on."

Dies has the names of over 400,000 people who mean Germany when they say "my country." They will help write the peace—if they can.

Six-Point Plan Behind Manpower Policy In State

Design For Most Effective Use Of Labor For War In This WMC Region

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—W. T. Englehorn, acting regional director of the War Manpower Commission, today announced a new plan designed to achieve the most effective mobilization and utilization of manpower in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Management and labor will be asked to aid in putting the program, which goes into effect immediately on a gradual basis, into operation, Englehorn said.

Six objectives are named in the plan:

1. Elimination of unnecessary and wasteful labor turnover and disruptive hiring practices by means of employment stabilization plans, which restrict the transfer of workers in essential activities unless they secure statements of availability before they can change employment.

2. Allocation of available supplies of workers by means of central hiring controls which require the channelling of hiring, transfer and allocation of workers in specific activities through local employment offices of the WMC.

3. Insurance of an adequate and orderly withdrawal of manpower from essential establishments to the armed forces and replacement of such manpower by means of manning tables and replacement schedules.

4. Encouragement of good personnel and production practices which assure the full utilization of presently employed workers, by means of a manpower utilization consultant service, which will assist establishments in placing each employe in full production capacity.

5. Satisfaction of basic labor needs by integrated training and intensive recruitment efforts of the local labor supply, including women, minority groups and handicapped workers, prior to controlled in-migration of outside workers.

6. Development of adequate community programs to provide for the housing, transportation, recreation, health and welfare of workers.

Washington must do the over-all planning; but if it disregards the warnings of generals at the front, we are sunk.

Don't mind being called eccentric. If machines had no eccentric, they would move only in a circle.

NAVAL CADETS BANQUET HERE

Forty From Westminster Celebrate Completion Of Eight Weeks' Course

Navigation, theory of flight and the other subjects necessary to a naval flier were forgotten in favor of fried chicken and things Thursday night, May 6, when the Naval Pre-Flight Cadets, 40 of them, at Westminster college held a dinner in the dining room of the Moose club. The dinner marked the closing of the eight week's intensive course there "43-G" cadets have undergone prior to more advanced training at a southern school.

The dinner was held at 8 o'clock with the Women of the Moose serving. Cadet William Herman acted as toastmaster and introduced a number of the special guests who spoke briefly. Included were Findley Wilson, who operates the airport and who is responsible for the actual flying training, Russell Cansler, laiason officer between Westminster college and the Navy, Joseph McClure, a pilot instructor; Carl Bonniquest, William Schnippert, Donald Kenehan and Joseph August. The blessing of the food was given by Arthur Meek.

As a mark of esteem, Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, an instructor in navigation and theory of flight was presented with a handsome necklace by the cadets. Mrs. Johnson is one of the few young women of the country who is engaged in teaching flight subjects. She responded briefly to the presentation by Cadet Herman.

About the time the program was half way through the air raid alarm blew, reminding the young cadets they were training for duties which some day may require them to answer such an alarm with interceptor planes.

The cadets were excused from any class attendance until Sunday midnight and most of them left for their homes in the east following the dinner. It is expected they will receive their new orders shortly after they return to New Wilmington.

NADYA GRUSHETZKY JOINS MARINE CORPS

Miss Nadya Grushetzky, 22, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Philip Grushetzky, of 305 East Reynolds street, has been sworn into the U. S. Marine Corps, and will leave the end of the month for Hunter College, New York City.

Miss Grushetzky, employee of the New Castle store, who is also a student of ballet dancing, writer of short stories, and a skater, said that she decided to join the marines because she believes that this is the best way for her to serve her country now and that military service will give her training and experience which will be valuable even after the war.

Marine recruit Grushetzky, whose father is pastor of St. Nicholas Greek Catholic church, lived in Nanticoke, Pa., before coming to New Castle with her family to live.

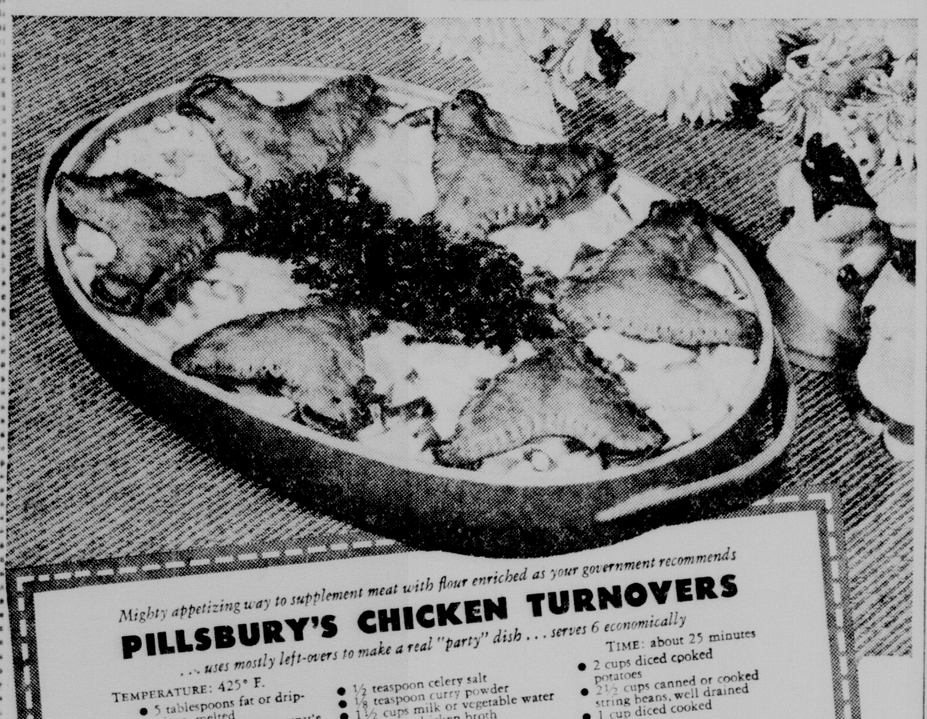
Look how less than a cup of chicken can fill a casserole! . . . how a tender topping of Pillsbury's Best can build up dishes for wartime meals!



Mighty appetizing way to supplement meat with flour enriched as your government recommends

PILLSBURY'S CHICKEN TURNOVERS

. . . uses mostly left-overs to make a real "party" dish . . . serves 6 economically

TEMPERATURE: 425° F. TIME: about 25 minutes

- 5 tablespoons fat or drippings, melted
- 5 tablespoons PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 1¼ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- ⅛ teaspoon curry powder
- 1½ cups milk or vegetable water
- 1¼ cups chicken broth
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 cups diced cooked potatoes
- 2½ cups canned or cooked string beans, well drained
- 1 cup diced cooked carrots

1. Combine fat, flour, and seasonings in saucepan to make smooth paste. Add combined liquids gradually to flour mixture, stirring constantly, cook until thick and smooth. 2. Add Worcestershire sauce and vegetables. Turn into 12 x 8 x 2-inch casserole. Place in hot oven to heat through thoroughly at same time turnovers are baking.

It's every woman's ambition to have all her baking come out full-bodied and satisfying, yet so tender it fairly melts in her mouth. And that's the reason for the "tender blend" of wheats in Pillsbury's Best. Some wheats are sturdy and full-bodied; others are tender and delicate. Pillsbury's "tender blend" is a scientific mixture of these different fine wheats. See for yourself how this fine all-purpose flour gives delicate tenderness to all your baking—from wholesome bread to the loveliest biscuits, cakes, and pastry.

- ¾ cup flaked cooked chicken
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup shortening
- 4 to 5 tablespoons cold water

1. Pan-fry onions in fat until tender; remove from heat. Add chicken and seasonings. 2. Sift flour once, measure; add salt; sift again. 3. Cut in shortening to about the size of small peas. 4. Add water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together; chill. 5. Roll out on a lightly floured board to about ⅛-inch thickness. Cut with floured chicken-shaped cutter into 12 pieces. Place about 2 tablespoons of above chicken mixture on half the pastry pieces. Moisten edges slightly; fit remaining pastry pieces over the mixture. Seal edges with fork. Prick tops to allow escape of steam. 6. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven. When done, arrange turnovers over top of casserole. Garnish with parsley and pimiento. Serve.

Note: If desired, turnovers may be made by cutting pastry into six 4-inch squares. Place chicken mixture on half of pastry; moisten edges slightly; fold over opposite edges; seal with fork.

For better bread—insist on this "tender blend" flour! Thanks to its "tender blend" of wheats, Pillsbury's Best helps you make bread that is full-bodied, hearty and substantial, yet amazingly light and tender.

Food rationing hints—Make your rationed foods go further by serving plentifully, baked foods and bread to keep meals satisfying and nourishing.

For example: Bake meat pies with fluffy biscuit topping. Stretch the meat ration with flour-thickened gravy. Serve meat stews with tender dumplings. Stretch canned vegetables in souffles or with flour-thickened sauces. Stretch canned fruits in puddings, cobblers, shortcakes.

Remember that when you use enriched white flour—which fortunately is plentiful—you further your government's nutrition program.

Enriched Flour contributes added calories of food-energy, two B-vitamins, and iron. Combined with milk, it provides body-building protein.

Prompt Recall Of Excess T Coupons For Gas Ordered

New Procedure Designed To Remove Potential Source Of "Black Market"

A new procedure worked out by the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration designed to remove a potential source of "black market" gasoline by arranging for prompt recall of excess "T" coupons of operators whose allotted mileage has been cut is now in operation in the five counties covered by the Youngstown district ODT office.

Under the new procedure, commercial vehicle operator whose gasoline allotment is reduced will be required to surrender his excess "T" coupons to the ODT when his operations are reviewed or when his revised certificate of war necessity is issued.

At the time his revised certificate is issued, the operator's original certificate becomes invalid and he must turn this in along with the surplus "T" coupons. The operator will be given a receipt for the invalidated certificate and the excess coupons by the Youngstown ODT office. The coupons will also be destroyed by the ODT office.

The new arrangement will assist the ODT in the review of all certificates of war necessity, currently being conducted in the Youngstown area to discover and correct certificates which allow operators more gasoline than their essential operations require.

This review has been necessitated by the fact that some operators in the Youngstown district have "T" rations in excess of needs, granted to them through initial errors in issuing certificates of war necessity, and also because a large number of operators have cut their mileage through joint action plans and other conservation devices since their present certificates were issued, Harry G. Boyd, district manager of the Youngstown ODT office, said.

"It will be possible under the new procedure to eliminate the time lag between the revision of an operator's certificate and the recall of his excess coupons," Mr. Boyd said.

Formerly the Youngstown ODT office had to notify the state OPA rationing administrator when an operator's certificate had been adjusted, and the administrator in turn notified the operator's war price and rationing board and the board in turn notified the operator to surrender his excess "T" coupons.

All this will be eliminated under the new procedure with the Youngstown ODT office picking up the excess coupons at the same time as the investigation is made or the adjusted certifictae is issued. Mr. Boyd also pointed out that ration holders take appeals from such action to the ODT office rather than to the district, state or regional OPA office. Specifically the new procedure provides:

1. Any gasoline coupons representing gallonage in excess of the certificate holder's revised needs will expire at the time a revised certifiate is issued.

2. Likewise any "T" ration coupons issued on the basis of a certificate of war necessity will expire upon the revocation of that certificate by the ODT.

3. Surrender of these void excess coupons will, in most cases, be demanded by the ODT, which will destroy them after giving the ration holder a receipt.

These provisions, Mr. Boyd pointed out, should serve greatly to expedite the withdrawal from the field of any "T" coupons that might be used in illegal gasoline transactions.

The Youngstown district ODT office covers the following counties: Mahoning, Trumbull and Columbiana in Ohio, Lawrence and Mercer in Pennsylvania.

Penitentiary Term For Draft Evader

Amishman Denounced As "Flagrant Violator Of Law" By Harrisburg Judge

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 7 — Lee George Wilt, of Lewistown, R. D. 3, was sentenced Thursday in federal court to two and one-half years in the penitentiary for attempting to evade the selective service law.

In sentencing Wilt, an Amishman, Judge Albert L. Watson denounced draft law violators for being "willing to accept the blessings for which other millions of our boys are fighting but attempting to escape their personal obligations to fight or work, for freedom."

"This man stands by and watches others taking his part, and flagrantly violates the law," he added.

Wilt was accused of failure to report to a conscientious objectors' work camp when directed to do so by his draft board. He pleaded guilty to the charge. Evidence was presented to show that Wilt had deliberately hidden nimself from officers sent to apprehend him and he was declared a wilful and flagrant deserter from the board's jurisdiction.

Correct this sentence: "He left the insurance to her, but asked her to divide with us, so we'll get our share."

HIT AND RUN BOMBING

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 7 — Three German planes made a hit-and-run attack on an East Anglian town this morning.

Ten persons were killed by bombs which also damaged buildings in the residential district.

Tire Inspection Truck Records Must Be Proper

Truck operators in the Youngstown district today were warned that their certificates of war necessity may be revoked unless proper tire inspection records are kept and certificates carried on the vehicles at all time.

The warning came from Mr. Harry G. Boyd, district manager of ODT's Youngstown office.

Mr. Boyd stated that an intensive road check of all points in and out of Youngstown revealed that truckers were not carrying their certificates of war necessity on their vehicles and that many of the operators admitted they have failed to have their tires inspected at OPA tire inspection stations as required by ODT regulations.

Violators in the Youngstown district have been warned that if they are found to be in violation a second time their certificates will be revoked, Mr. Boyd said.

More frequent road checks by ODT inspectors of truck operations in and out of Youngstown in order to effect wider compliance with these phases of the ODT regulations were promised by Mr. Boyd.

The Youngstown ODT office covers operations in the following counties, Mahoning, Trumbull and Columbiana in Ohio, and Lawrence and Mercer in Pennsylvania.

(County Farm Agent)

PLANT PROTECTORS

Plant protectors of various types, either manufactured or homemade, may be used to increase the earliness of some vegetable crops. The most practical of these are made to resemble a miniature tent. The protectors are kept in position by piling soil around the edges of the plant.

Only well-hardened plants should be placed under plant protectors. The most benefit seems to be derived from using plant protectors with tender plants, such as tomato, pepper, eggplant, muskmelon and cumumber. Seeds of some vegetables, such as lima beans, corn, cucumber and watermelon are sometimes planted under the protectors. Some protection from insects may be afforded also. Care must be taken to plant seeds under the protectors only in a moist soil. Some ventilation is essential even at first and should be increased gradually until the top is completely open. An advance of more than a week in planting date should not be attempted.

Invasion Of Europe Feasible Before End Of Tunisian Battle

OWI Director Sees No Reason For Tunisian Campaign Lasting All Summer

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—OWI Director Elmer Davis Thursday expressed belief that it will be possible to begin an invasion of Europe before the end of the battle for Tunisia, which Secretary of War Stimson said now is in its final stages.

"It would appear to be feasible," Davis said, "to start the invasion even if there still was one pocket in Tunisia which hadn't been cleaned out."

The OWI director declared he saw no reason why the Tunisian campaign should last until the end of summer, pointing out that Gen Henri Giraud, French commander-in-chief of North Africa, had given the Germans only until the end of May to hold out.

"Today's news makes it look like the Allies will be able to 'pocket off' Bizerte very soon," Davis said. "Of course the defenses there are very strong but we have Adm. Emile Muselier, who built the defenses of Bizerte, on our side in North Africa."

Davis asserted that the recent occupation of the Russell Islands in the south Pacific by United States forces was not necessarily contrary to the statements by military leaders that American would not wage an island-by-island campaign against the Japanese.

Davis viewed the Russell Islands as merely "an outpost for Guadalcanal."

JAP TOUNGOO BASE IS HEAVILY BOMBED

(International News Service)

NEW DELHI, May 7—The important Japanese base at Toungoo, Burma, 150 miles north of Rangoon, was plastered with 30 tons of bombs in a raid by heavy United States bombers, American headquarters announced on Thursday.

Returning pilots of the heavy bomber formation said all bombs fell in the target area and reported seeing several heavy explosions and extensive damage to buildings and other installations after the raid Tuesday.

An India command communique said British Wellington bombers last night bombed rail installations at Prome, west of Toungoo, setting off large explosions and starting numerous fires.

SIX MOTHERS WILL GET FLOWERS FROM DEAD SONS' BUDDIES

PITTSBURGH, May 7—Six American mothers whose sons have died in the North African fighting will receive bouquets of flowers Sunday in honor of Mothers' Day which were ordered by the buddies of the fallen soldiers.

A florist shop at nearby Clairton, formerly operated by Kenneth Jones, now a technical sergeant in Tunisia, has received an order from Africa to forward the bouquets to the mothers of a half dozen boys killed in action.

SEVENTH WARD

Splendid Parade By Mahoning School

Faculty And Pupils Celebrate Successful Campaign Buying Bonds And Stamps

On Thursday afternoon, a splendid colorful parade was presented in the ward by the faculty and pupils of Mahoning school.

The parade was in celebration of the fine achievement of the pupils in the purchasing and selling of war bonds and stamps, from September to May, which has amounted to $11,493.

Several Boy Scouts, one carrying "Old Glory", and Miss Nannie Mitchelltree, principal, led the parade. This was followed by a high stepping young lady drum major and her aides.

Stirring music was furnished by the school band, about 35 in number, spick and span, in their red and white suits, under the leadership of Miss Gwladys Thomas. The pupils from classes one to nine carried many posters with significant mottoes such as "United For Victory" "Grow It, Eat It", etc. In one class each carried a U. S. flag, another carried the various gardening tools and placard urging Victory gardening, one class carried the various products of the garden, a group of youths had large cards depicting the flags of the various United Nations; there were nurses, truck with soldiers, minute men, jeeps and ambulance corps.

Many of the residents turned out to witness the parade, and were quite enthusiastic of the showing made by the pupils.

Beginning March 1, the pupils set out to purchase and sell enough bonds and stamps to buy two jeeps for the army by April 19, Lexington Day, but with splendid cooperative efforts the final score was $4043.45, more than sufficient to purchase four jeeps.

EAGLE PATROL

Harold Farris, of West Clayton street, was host to the Eagle Patrol of Boy Scouts Troop V-4, on Wednesday evening.

John Huff, assistant Eagle Patrol leader, was in charge of the meeting.

AUXILIARY FIRE TRUCK

Auxiliary firemen of the ward are proud of their fire truck which has been equipped for their use. It could be seen on North Liberty street, Thursday afternoon. On the truck a fine water pumping unit, gasoline driven, has been installed, property of U. S. government O.C.D. This unit can pump 500 gallons of water per minute. There is ample space in the truck for hose, ladders, and other equipment, also for the men.

Gene Scanlon is president of the Auxiliary firemen group.

Yankees Crush Boston Red Sox Pennant Dreams

NEW YORKERS BLAST BOSOX SEVEN TIMES

Sweep Twin Bill Thursday; Phillies, Cleveland, Browns Winners

ATHLETICS BLANK WASHINGTON, 7-0

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 7.—Barring a sudden and drastic upheavel the New York Yankees have broken the backs of the Boston Red Sox in the current American League pennant campaign. Starting right at the wire, the Yanks have eliminated the Boston entry from pennant consideration unless there is a tremendous upsurge on the part of the latter through the stretch.

So far Boston has won only four games, three from the Philadelphia Athletics and one from the Yankees, the latter being in contrast to seven victories scored by the Yankees through yesterday when the champions swept a double-header, 2 to 1 and 5 to 4.

Both games were just as close as the scores indicate, but also just as decisive in favor of the Yankees as any victory might be whether by one run or a dozen.

Ernie Bonham hurled the opening triumph for his third win of the year and an assortment of Yankee hurlers collaborated on the nightcap to make it a four hitter and to shutout Boston from the first inning on, after Rookie Tom Byrne had started by allowing the Sox all four runs in the first.

No Hitting-Pitching

In the past Boston was supposed to have hitting and no pitching and this season banked on pitching to carry through for a lack of plate power, whereas seemingly the club now lacks both hitting and hurling. This probably is the tipoff on one contender. The Yanks have to worry only about the rest.

Cleveland maintained its safe hold on second place by downing Chicago 6 to 3, and Philadelphia shutout Washington, 7 to 0, behind Roger Wolff, who scattered 10 hits.

The St. Louis Browns stopped the Detroit Tigers, 1 to 0, in the ninth when George McQuinn tripled and scored on Don Heffner's bunt.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 1, on Hi Bithorn's seven-hit pitching and in the only other game, the Philadelphia Phillies downed Brooklyn, 3 to 2, in 10 innings.

Harvard Scraps College Football

Will Play Intramural Brand; Yale, Princeton Won't Follow Suit

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., May 7—Harvard's decision to abandon intercollegiate football for the duration was not shared today by Yale and Princeton, the other members of the "Big Three."

Carroll F. Getchell, athletic director, announced suspension of Harvard's 1943 "Big League" football schedule and said that only intramural football would be played next fall.

Howard Odell, Coach at Yale, said his team would play its full schedule with the exception of Harvard.

At Princeton Asa Bushnell, acting director of athletics said the Princeton eleven would go ahead with its schedule as planned but of course eliminate the Harvard contest.

Harvard has lost its coach, Dick Harlow and its athletic director, William J. Bingham to the armed services in addition to most of its best players.

"League Will Struggle Thru In Necessarily Limited Way," Layden

MANPOWER PROBLEM IS NOT TOO SERIOUS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

CHICAGO, May 7—Elmer Layden, the old Notre Damer who found he had a great chance not to keep on cultivating a heart condition as a football coach and gamely consented to take the $25,000-a-year as commissioner of the National Pro league, didn't say so in so many words today.

But the impression persisted, nevertheless, that he didn't expect professional football to have as haggard a time of it with manpower next fall as professional baseball seems to be having now.

"I think the league will struggle through in a necessarily limited way," Elmer added, temperately.

Briefly, the league now has 352 active players in the military forces, as against a normal player-personnel of 330. This year, the limit is down to 225 and, of these, almost 100 are in deferred classifications, because of dependent wives and children.

Another Source Tapped

Another source was tapped last year when it was discovered, via Bob Flowers, Joe Carter and Paul Berezney, that a player could be out of football for a couple of years and still come back and play the game competently.

At this point, said Ralph Brizzolara, the steel man who's in charge of the Bears while George Halas is in the service:

"Our sport will be as good as other things that are rationed. You think meat and shoe rationing are all right, don't you? Well, our football will be the same."

Layden felt moved to become expansive about what pro football planned to do with its own playing fields after the war. But there seemed no particular need to go into that now.

Layden has a suite overlooking Michigan boulevard, with push buttons, secretaries, dictaphones and inter-office phones. Going along with all this is a sort of a keeper of the flame; an official exhorter and inciter, namely Strickler, who once was a newspaperman himself, but recovered.

"Salty" Parker St. Paul Manager

Ex-Shreveport Boss Brings Along Players Not In Armed Forces

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., May 7—It isn't often that a manager and his entire team are promoted at one and the same time, yet that is what happened in the case of "Salty" Parker and his Shreveport, La., players.

"Salty," new skipper of the St. Paul Saints, came to the American Association when the Texas League discontinued baseball for the duration. He brought along with him all of his players who are not now in the armed services.

Parker broke into organized baseball at the tender age of 17, his first assignment being with the Moline, Ill., club. In 1932 he was purchased by Beaumont of the Texas League and played there until 1935 when he went up to the Detroit Tigers. In 1936 he was with Toledo of the Association and in 1937 was sold outright to the Indianapolis Indians of the same circuit.

Manager In 1939

Parker's managerial career started in 1939, when he was appointed skipper of the Lubock club of the West Texas-New Mexico League. In that season, he led his team to the first of three flags that he was destined to capture in the next four seasons.

The following year, he won the championship with the Marshall club of the East Texas League, skipped a year, and then captured the Texas League honors at Shreveport in 1942.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Years ago when the Jolly Bowl was in operation time and again readers of The News saw some very good cartoons of bowl fighters and action scenes. They were drawn by Jack Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Shannon. Later, Jack came to The News as a reporter then went to the Sharon Herald as a cartoonist and writer. When the Stab in the Back took place, Jack's thoughts centered upon uniform. Jack was quite heavy. Several times the recruiter said "No." However, he managed to cut down his weight to such a poundage that he was accepted. Today he is attached to Public relations at MacDill Field, Fla. Today we were shown the "Thunder Bird, publication of MacDill Field and in it were half a dozen cartoons drawn by Jack. They are exceptionally good as is the photographic illustrations by other artists and articles prepared by writers are also very good.

Sports Ramblings

Sports panorama:---

Designed mainly to harden teen-aged boys who soon will be sporting Uncle Sam's olive drab, Coach "Pat" Patterson, at Union Township high, has constructed an obstacle course that closely resembles some of the layouts in pre-flight schools throughout the country. The twisty route, studded with every imaginable impediment that confronts the American soldier across the continent, has set up in the rear of the school and stretches into swamp land. The contrivance extends over 1,200 yards . . .

Before the close of school, Patterson plans to stage a "commando meet". Every school in the county will be invited to vie in the affair, even New Castle high. Contestants trudging through the course in the fastest time will be declared winners. Participants will be divided into classes, thus giving all boys a fair shake. The novel sports event not only promises to provide rare amusement but will give civilians a look at some of the obstacles our boys must overcome in their winning battle against the Axis . . .

Odd and ends:---At 18, Phil Cavarretta helped to first-base the Cubs to a pennant. That was back in 1935. He hasn't been able to hold down a regular berth since! . . . Angelo Bertelli, Notre Dame's star passer, is still tossing. He pitches strikes from centerfield on the Irish baseball nine . . . Henry C. Paulssen, New York railroad conductor, recently rolled his first 300 game in 10 years. Three weeks later, he duplicated the feat! . . .

The Dodgers rank as the only team in the National to hold an edge over Carl Hubbell. The Giant lefty has beaten the Bums 24 times out of 59 attempts . . . Bill Sayles, the Giants' rookie hurler, was a member of the amateur baseball team that played in the Berlin Olympics in 1936 . . . Mere $3,500 Is Separating Cubs-Novikoff

Outfielder's Absence May Explain Unexpected Fold Of Chicago Nine

LOU'S .300 MARK NEEDED IN LINEUP

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 7.—A mere matter of $3,500 may be the stumbling block that has caused the Chicago Cubs to falter so miserably at the very start of the National League pennant race.

Those few pennies—and that's all $3,500 is in a baseball setup—have kept Lou Novikoff, the Mad Russion, from signing his 1943 contract. They might go right on floundering with him in the lineup, to be sure. He doesn't carry a pennant guarantee pasted on his bat, but in times like these a .300 hitter isn't one to be sneezed off. He inevitably must be more help than hindrance.

He's Probably Laughing

According to the story, he was paid $6,000 last year and was offered $6,500 for this season, with the result that he demanded $10,000—and is probably laughing his Mad Russian laugh at the inept antics of the Cubs, while he goes through his holdout.

He is not the world's greatest outfielder, but he can hit, as he began to prove last year after experiencing considerable trouble in learning the eccentric ways of a ball pitched by a big league pitcher. He may not ever approach in the majors the things he did in the Coast league, but he doesn't have to. An average around .300 will do.

That's what he hit last year for the Cubs and what's more he did it after a late start and woundup with 64 runs batted in. The secret of his ultimate success probably was traceable to the offer Manager Jimmy Wilson made. Wilson told Novikoff he would pay him $5 every time he struck out swinging.

Shakes Slump

Novikoff began swinging at those strikes instead of taking them with his bat on his shoulder, finally he began to hit and at $50—or for 10 strikeouts—Wilson paid off and Novikoff was out of the slump. He was all set to go this year, when that contractural squabble came up to remain unsettled, making you wonder if .300 hitters are so plentiful now that a club can afford to let a gent like him pine away these bright spring days in California.

Some baseball men say he's a cinch to be good, if not great, major league hitter. Through 1941, he had won four straight major league batting titles. He has hit as high as .370 and has driven in as many as 171 runs. He soon will be 28 years old and won't be around much longer but he still has a couple or three years in which to get going, if the Cubs will let him. That they have kept him idle this season must be a terrible and tragic thing to him.

Sportsmen Ask Aid In Tree Planting Saturday Morning

Planting will be done on Saturday, and the association is asking for assistance in getting the trees set out. Any person willing to aid in the work should report at the site of the planting about 8 o'clock Saturday morning, or as soon after that hour as possible.

Kern, Mountaineer Pilot, Commissioned

Ira Rodgers, Veteran Assistant Mentor, Gets West Virginia Job

(International News Service)

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 7—West Virginia university's Mountaineers lost little time today in naming veteran Assistant Coach Ira Errett Rodgers to fill in for Bill Kern, head grid coach for the last three years, who yesterday was granted a leave of absence to accept a lieutenant's commission in the naval reserve.

Kern, coach at Carnegie Tech for three seasons before coming to West Virginia, is scheduled to report July 1 at the pre-flight school at Chapel Hill N. C., for an indoctrination course.

Rodgers, the new mentor, was an all-Amreican fullback on Walter Camp's 1919 team while playing for the Mountaineers. He has served as assistant grid coach at West Virginia under five different men since graduation.

Roy M. Hawley, Mountaineer athletic director, promised that "Kern's job will be waiting for him at the end of the war."

Measure Passed To Audit Auditor Ross' Departmental Books

Democrats Defeat Bill Requiring Liquor License Applicants To Advertise Beforehand

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 7 — The house on Thursday approved a senate-enacted measure authorizing the chief executive to appoint certified public accountants to audit the department of Auditor General P. Clair Ross, Democratic gubernatorial opponent last fall of Gov. Edward Martin.

The Republican-sponsored measure was passed over Democratic objections and will now be returned to the senate for concurrence in minor amendments before being submitted to the governor for his signature.

The Democrats succeeded, however, in defeating a house bill which would have compelled applicants for liquor licenses to advertise beforehand in newspapers in the area affected. The measure failed by a vote of 98-87, less than the required constitutional majority of 105. Republican leaders indicated, however, that an attempt may be made to revive and pass the bill. It was sponsored by Rep. Thomas H. Lee (R) Philadelphia.

House approval was given to a senate resolution amending the constitution to permit sheriffs to succeed themselves. It must be approved by the 1945 legislature and the electorate before it can become law.

The house also approved without amendment a senate measure appropriating $5,000 for the reconstruction of a dam near Seelyville, Wayne county, destroyed by a flash flood.

"TIE-IN" SELLING NEW FOOD RACKET

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 7.—A new form of food racketeering—described as "tie-in" selling—is sweeping Pittsburgh, according to the local office of the OPA.

E. G. Albright, OPA price expert, explained that "tie-in" selling was a device recently worked out by which "racketeering dealers" flood wholesale and retail markets with unpopular and slow-moving items by offering scarce articles as a "premium" or "bait".

At present, Albright declared, the dealers were offering potatoes, currently very scarce in Pittsburgh, as the "come-on" lure.

LEGION OF HONOR WILL AID GAACS

At the meeting of the Legion of Honor, of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, held last evening during the blackout, in The Cathedral, it was voted to contribute the sum of $10 toward the purchase of gloves for the GAACS drill team.

The Legion of Honor made plans to assist with the events in connection with the spring reunion of the Consistory, and heard reports of the recent Family Night party. Chairman Ralph H. Montgomery announced that Clarence S. Jarrett had charge of the feed and Fred M. Alexander the entertainment in connection with the party.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7—A bone-crushing jamboree is in store for wrestling fans at the Philadelphia arena tonight. Ernie Dusek and George "K.O." Koverly, of Canada, will mix in a two-out-of-three-falls 90-minute windup. Each has won a match in their two previous meetings. Joe Cox of Kansas City will grapple with the yellow mask in a 30-minute semi-windup, and Rudy and Emil Dusek will stage a brother act against Maurice Lachappelle and Herman Rhode. Max Krauser, of Lakewood will climb into the ring against Tarzan White.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Well, they really put the works to the Air Raid Wardens yesterday. Two Air Raid Tests in one day . . . somewhat confused were the Wardens. Some heard part of the signals and others heard them all . . . then they wondered where they stood, should they stop cars . . . should they let them go. Both tests were the same . . . although it is much easier to work in the dark . . . one district carries by sight better than by sound.

Air Raid Wardens should read over their instructions and they should go out in the neighborhood and talk to their neighbors . . . explain the signal system . . . see that blackout rooms are in proper order. Too many people today just turn out lights and sit for the duration of the Test . . . sometime it might not be a test and the Raid might last for a spell . . . Practice is what we need and your co-operation with the OCD will be to your advantage.

Tonight in the Cathedral at 8:15 the curtain will raise on another of those stage programs that we all like . . . Miss Jean Bartsch will present her school of dance students . . . from little tots to adults. The program this time will show just how dancing tends to contribute to the health of our Nation. You will enjoy this show so don't be late . . . curtain at 8:15.

Another group went to the country yesterday and helped a farmer husk corn . . . thus making ready another field for planting this season. Your help is needed . . . and will be needed as the spring turn into summer and summer to fall. We here in the city must back up the Land Army of Farmers . . . if they will but plant a full capacity crop or crops the city feller will do his damnedest to help him harvest those crops. If you can help in any way or any time . . . please register at 21 South Mill street . . . Lawrence County Emergency Farm Labor office.

* * *

Just to plug for our product the classified ad page we might say that in no other way can you talk to so many people for such little money . . . for 30 cents you can tell your story or need or want to over 100,000 people. That's a lot of people and if you talk right you can get almost anything you want.

Charles Follett Memorial Plaque Given To Council

Presentation Is Made By Boy Scout Council Commissioner, Nelson Runyan

ELLWOOD CITY, May 7—Interrupted approximately one hour by the black out trail, the regular May meeting of the Ellwood Boro Council was held on Thursday night. Four members, Reinheimer, Biordi, Lanzi and McCandless were absent. McCandless was recently granted a military leave of absence.

The main feature of the evening was the presentation of an attractive wall plaque for the council room. The plaque is in memory of Charles Follett, Jr., who was fatally burned during a gasoline explosion last fall at a football game. The plaque was presented by Boy Scout Commissioner Nelson Runyan, who told about the heroic deed of Eagle Scout Follett. Elmer S. Greenham, council president, accepted the honor tablet.

The annual appropriation for the observance of Memorial Day was approved.

The sum of $800 was offered to Council by Lawrence Tammarro, of Lawrence avenue, for the purchase of four boro lots in Beaver avenue. Before accepting the offer, the property will be advertised.

Ray H. Aylesworth was awarded the bid for the automotive fleet insurance. His bid of $279.44 from the American Automobile Insurance company was the lowest of six offers. The rules and regulations committee was given power to act in regard to bids for painting part of the city building interior.

Total fines, costs and forfeits were listed at $104.50. Four fires for April were reported with the total damage being $50. Tax collections for the month of April amounted to $285.

Eighteen cases of chicken pox and 35 of measles were reported by the health officer.

Property owners will be notified to have their sidewalks repaired and cemented during the warm weather.

CURFEW MEASURE PASSED BY COUNCIL

Whistle Will Be Blown At 11 During Summer And At 10 For The Rest Of Year

ELLWOOD CITY, May 7.—Effective in ten days, Ellwood City will have a curfew for all children up to the age of eighteen years. Council last night suspended the rules and regulations to pass such an ordinance on first and final reading.

During June, July and August, the curfew whistle will be blown at 11 p. m., and from September through May the whistle will sound at 10 p. m.

To make the curfew really effective, the ordinance calls for a $10 fine for violators, and the same fine for parents of the violators.

The ordinance does not apply, of course, to children accompanied by their parents. The ordinance was unanimously passed after Burgess Clyde B. Houk made such an appeal, stating that the juvenile delinquency here during the past four week ends had been shocking.

The winners of the recent contest, between the "Blue" and "Gold" teams, which resulted in a win for the "Blues" were treated by the losers. Games were played throughout the entire evening. Under the direction of Ken Fox the recreational period was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The two persons who rated as winners in the attendance and membership contest were Melvin Ringer and Billy Greenham. These two will be awarded prizes during the annual meeting of the supper club to be held on May 9.

At the close of the party a luncheon was served by the luncheon committee: Betty Edwards, Nina Main, and Peggy Adams.
